1. INTRODUCTION

The primary objective of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) efforts to address the indoor radon problem is to reduce radon levels in buildings throughout the country. Achieving this objective requires a nationwide supply of capable radon mitigation contractors. In the Indoor Radon Abatement Act of 1988, Congress authorized EPA to establish a program to evaluate radon mitigation contractors and to provide this information to the public in cooperation with the States.

The Radon Contractor Proficiency (RCP) Program was developed to assist States, EPA Regions, local government officials, and the public in selecting contractors who have demonstrated their proficiency in reducing indoor radon levels. This program is managed by the EPA Office of Radiation Programs' Radon Division. Under this voluntary program, radon contractors demonstrate their proficiency by meeting specific Program requirements. Individual contractors who meet these requirements are then listed in the Report.

2. LISTING IN THE PROFICIENCY REPORT - WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

This report lists those individual contractors who have met the requirements of the RCP Program as of January 15, 1993. These requirements are designed to provide minimum proficiency criteria for individuals who design and supervise the installation of radon mitigation systems in buildings. (Some States have more stringent requirements as part of their radon certification programs. The States should be consulted directly for details on their programs; see Section 5 for a list of State radon contacts).

The RCP Program measures the proficiency of an individual contractor, not their company. Therefore, users of this report who select a mitigation firm should ensure that the services are provided by the listed contractor.

The National RCP Program does not accredit mitigation contractors, nor does it certify, recommend, or endorse participating companies. Only the listed contractor, not their company of affiliation, are deemed proficient. The inclusion of a contractor in this report should not be interpreted as a certification or accreditation of the individual or affiliated company.

States and the public are advised to use only those contractors who are currently listed and continue to meet all of the program's requirements as outlined in Section 3. A proficient mitigator can be identified by their RCP photo identification card. A sample of this card is shown in Exhibit 1. The RCP identification number can be used to verify a contractor's current status in the program, or to report any problems or deficiencies to the State contacts listed in Section 5. When using listed mitigation contractors, consumers should verify that the contractor has kept his/her proficiency status current by checking the expiration date on the contractor's RCP identification card. The Report will be updated monthly.

	Name: _____ ID. #: _____ <small>The identified individual has completed the requirements for listing under the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Radon Contractor Proficiency (RCP) Program. This person is not an employee of, nor do they represent, the Federal Government.</small>

The EPA Radon Contractor Proficiency (RCP) Program evaluates the proficiency of radon mitigation contractors. This voluntary program does not accredit, certify, recommend, or endorse listed contractors, nor is it responsible for work done, or liability incurred by the contractor. Contractors must pass a written examination, keep records on mitigation work, adhere to mitigation guidelines, complete continuing education requirements, pass a reexamination every two years and maintain a current listing on the RCP National Radon Contractor Proficiency List. To verify current listing or to report problems, please call your State Department of Health or Environmental Protection.

3. PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

The RCP is a voluntary program, consisting of several elements which collectively help to ensure the proficiency of radon mitigation contractors. In order to demonstrate proficiency and be listed in the Report, contractors must fulfill certain requirements:

- Training - the contractor must complete at least two days of EPA-approved, hands-on training. Training is available through EPA Regional Radon Training Centers (listed in the Preface) and other approved training providers.
- National Exam - a contractor's knowledge of the major areas (domains) of mitigation practice is evaluated through a comprehensive written national exam (see Exhibit 2). There are six exam domains:
 - Evaluation
 - Diagnosis
 - Selection Strategy
 - Implementation Strategy
 - System Evaluation
 - Ethics
- Record Keeping and Inspection - the contractor must maintain records on the mitigation systems he or she has installed.
- Interim Radon Mitigation Standards - the contractor must adhere to minimum performance standards. The public may wish to use these standards as a basis for comparing service bids by contractors. The standards are presented in Section 4.
- Continuing Education - the contractor is strongly recommended to take over a two-year period sixteen (16) hours of coursework, conferences, symposia, workshops, seminars, or other radon-related activities. This will facilitate professional development and provide the opportunity to remain well-informed on current radon mitigation practices and procedures.
- Biennial Re-exam - the contractor will be evaluated by written examination every two years on their knowledge of changes in technology, regulations, protocols, and other radon subjects. Updated ID cards will be issued to contractors upon passage of the re-examination.

DESCRIPTION OF EXAM DOMAINS

1. Evaluate

Review the radon measurement history by evaluating past test results in order to determine if there is need for further action.

2. Diagnose

Identify the radon entry routes by visually inspecting the structure and by using diagnostic tests. This information can be used for designing a mitigation system or for troubleshooting system failures.

3. Selection Strategy

Select a mitigation strategy by reviewing relevant data and by considering the client's requirements, industry standards and practices, and mitigation alternatives (along with their relative costs and benefits), in order to reduce radon levels.

Develop a detailed mitigation design (including the type, size, and location of the system, and any necessary equipment) within the constraints of the building's construction, building codes, and other relevant factors that could affect the system's performance.

4. Implementation Strategy

Implement the mitigation system design by correctly installing the equipment and by making structural alterations and/or repairs as necessary in order to reduce radon levels.

5. System Evaluation

Check the operation of the system by performing appropriate tests. Arrange for proper system maintenance and follow-up by educating the client to ensure continued system functioning and effectiveness.

6. Ethics

Adhere to the highest standards of business and ethical practice and respect the privacy rights of clients.

4. INTERIM RADON MITIGATION STANDARDS

This document outlines basic minimum performance standards for participants in the Radon Contractor Proficiency (RCP) Program involved in the reduction of radon in buildings. The purpose of these standards is to help ensure the protection of the general public from the risk of elevated indoor radon. State and local regulatory agencies may choose to expand and use these standards in assessing performance of professionals involved in radon mitigation. While this document outlines minimum requirements for participation in the voluntary Federal program, there may be other practices necessary to achieve quality radon mitigation installations. Radon mitigation contractors agree to follow these standards as a condition for inclusion in the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) National Radon Contractor Proficiency Report, and as a condition for EPA approval. Failure to comply with these standards may result in loss of EPA approval and the contractor's name being removed from the RCP Program Proficiency Report.

This document replaces the RCP Program Radon Mitigation Guidelines issued in October 1989. The Standards incorporate revisions intended to clarify required practices of RCP Program listed contractors. RCP contractors are not required to retrofit work performed prior to December 15, 1991, as relates to these mandatory practices. The word "shall" is highlighted and used to indicate practices that are mandatory for program participants. At a later date the Agency may supersede these Interim Standards by issuing final Radon Mitigation Standards which will establish more definitive specifications for the installation of radon mitigation systems.

For further questions concerning these Interim Mitigation Standards, please call your EPA Regional Office. For extra copies of these Standards, please call your nearest Regional Radon Training Center (see page 12).

Definition: "mitigator", "contractor" - the individual approved and listed in the RCP Program.

Initial Client Interview - Radon Measurements

The mitigator shall review and assess the quality of any previous radon measurements made by the client and ascertain whether or not these measurements were made in accordance with EPA "Indoor Radon and Radon Decay Product Measurement Device Protocols" (EPA 402-R-92-004), "Interim Protocols for Screening and Follow-up Radon and Radon Decay Product Measurements" (EPA 520/1-86-014-1), or subsequent revisions or additions to these documents. If the contractor determines that the procedures outlined in these documents were not followed, the contractor shall advise the client of this and retesting shall be recommended.

Building Investigation

The contractor shall conduct a visual inspection prior to the initiation of any installation activities to assist in designing the most effective mitigation system.

Temporary Risk Reduction Measures

In dwellings with elevated radon levels, the mitigator shall advise the client whether or not temporary measures should be used to reduce occupant exposure until a permanent mitigation system can be installed. This could include temporary measures such as natural ventilation, or mechanical ventilation with unconditioned outside air, or limiting the occupants' exposure by minimizing the time spent in areas of the home with elevated radon levels, or any measures which effectively minimize occupant exposure.

The contractor shall not install a temporary radon reduction system in lieu of a permanent mitigation system.

Temporary radon reduction systems shall be labeled as such. The notice shall be legible at a distance of two feet, and contain wording stating that the system should 1) not be removed until a permanent mitigation system can be installed, and 2) the permanent mitigation system should be installed within 30 days after the installation date of the temporary system. The label shall also contain the contractor's name, phone number, and the installation date. If the equipment is not easily labeled, the notice shall be posted on the electric service panel or other prominent location.

Client Information

The contractor shall provide the following information to the client prior to initiating any work:

1. the contractor's RCP Program identification number;
2. the scope of the work to be completed;
3. a statement indicating any known hazards associated with chemicals used in or as part of the installation;
4. a statement indicating compliance with and implementation of all EPA standards and those of other agencies having jurisdiction (e.g., code requirements);
5. a statement indicating any required maintenance by the homeowner; and
6. an estimate of the installation cost and annual operating cost of the system.

Mitigation System Installation

The mitigation system shall be installed as a permanent, integral part of a building.

The mitigator shall comply with all laws, ordinances, local building codes, applicable Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) standards, or regulations of all Authorities having jurisdiction. The mitigator shall obtain all licenses and permits required for the work. Examples of these include proper contractor licenses and building permits. In cases where discrepancies occur between these Mitigation Standards and applicable laws, ordinances, local building codes or regulations, the appropriate laws take precedence. Where such deviations from the Mitigation Standards are required by law, they shall be reported to the EPA Regional office within 30 days after completion of work.

Material Safety Data Sheets (MSDS) for sealers, compounds, adhesives, paints, and other materials shall be provided to workers and also made available to clients upon request. The contractor shall review with the occupants or their representative all materials to be used in the installation of the mitigation system and notify them if the MSDS indicates the possibility for adverse reactions in sensitive people.

Each active radon mitigation system shall have a mechanism to monitor system performance. The mechanism shall be plainly visible and simple to read or interpret.

All visible portions of mitigation systems shall be labeled (including the system power or disconnect switch) to identify their function. One central label shall be placed on the mitigation system, electric panel, or other prominent location; be legible from a distance of at least two feet; and include a system description, a contact name and phone number.

Depressurization system fans (i.e., sub-slab, sub-membrane, block wall and drain tile depressurization systems) shall not be installed in the conditioned (heated/cooled) space of a building, or in any basement, crawlspace, or other interior location directly beneath conditioned space of a building. Appropriate places for depressurization system fans include attics not suitable for habitation, garages, or the exterior of the building.

To ensure against re-entrainment of radon back into the building and direct exposure to people, exhaust vents from depressurization system fans and radon-in-water aeration systems shall be discharged according to all of the following requirements: 1) the discharge point shall be ten feet or more above ground level; 2) the discharge point shall be ten feet or more, measured directly (line-of-sight) from any window, door, or other openings in the structure (e.g., vents, operable skylights or air intakes) that are less than two feet below the exhaust point; 3) the discharge point shall be ten feet or more away from any private or public access; and 4) the discharge point shall be ten feet or more from any opening into an adjacent building.

All buildings containing combustion devices where active depressurization systems have been installed shall be tested for backdrafting of combustion appliances immediately upon completion of the mitigation system installation. Any backdrafting condition caused by the installed mitigation system shall be corrected immediately. The mitigation system shall not be operated until backdrafting conditions are corrected. Pretesting the building for potential backdrafting problems may determine the possibility of backdrafting after the system is installed.

Post-Mitigation Testing

The contractor shall ensure that a confirmatory short-term screening measurement is made no sooner than 24 hours, nor longer than 30 days after completion and start-up of the mitigation system. The contractor shall recommend that the client obtain an independent radon measurement. The contractor is not required to make a confirmatory radon measurement if he/she can obtain a copy of the test report from a client's or independent third party's test. The contractor shall recommend retesting at least every two years. All measurements shall be conducted in accordance with EPA protocols as cited in "Interim Protocols For Screening and Follow-up Radon and Radon Decay Product Measurements" (EPA 520/1-86-014-1) and "Indoor Radon and Radon Decay Product Measurement Device Protocols" (EPA 402-R-92-004), or subsequent revisions or additions to these documents.

Worker Safety

Contractors shall comply with all applicable OSHA standards relating to worker safety and occupational radon exposure. Please reference the following standards in the Code of Federal Regulations: OSHA "Safety and Health Regulations for Construction," 29 CFR 1926, and OSHA "Occupational Safety and Health Regulations," 29 CFR 1910.

6. How To Use The RCP Tables

This report lists proficient radon contractors in two tables, each of which provides the name, company name, address, telephone number, and geographic service area of the 878 contractors in the Report. Also, Attachment A contains a list of delisted contractors. This list is any contractor who has not met the re-exam requirement (see Section 3).

Table 1 is an alphabetical list of all contractors, indexed by last name. Table 2 is an alphabetical list of all contractors, indexed by last name and by the State(s) in which they provide services; contractors who stated in their RCP application that they provide services nationwide are listed at the end of the table. Consumers who want a complete list of all contractors providing services in their State should consult both the State listing and the nationwide listing in Table 2. State radon contacts (see Section 5) can be consulted directly for periodic updates to the listings in these tables.

Note: If a State is not listed in Table 2, then there are no proficient contractors living in that State and no contractors explicitly listed that State as within their service area. Persons in these States who are seeking a proficient contractor should consult a contractor who provides services nationwide.

The abbreviations used in the tables for States, U.S. Territories, and Canada follow the standard two-letter postal format:
