FOREWORD

This document is intended to provide the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Oil Program with a mailing list of entities, including trade organizations and industry associations, which represent various sectors subject to the Oil Pollution Prevention Regulation. The document is intended for EPA's use in targeting these organizations for outreach, so that EPA can disseminate accurate information relating to the regulation. Addresses, phone numbers and e-mail addresses are provided where available.

This document is limited in scope to trade organizations and industry associations and is by no means all-inclusive. Within each industry sector there are two subdivisions: national and regional. The organizations are listed in alphabetical order under each. A few organizations appear in more than one industry sector because their scope of activity covers related areas. Conversely, associations that are not directly involved in a particular industry are listed separately under "all sectors."

Most of the organizations appearing in this document are national; the few that are strictly regional follow under their own subhead.
