DESIGN FOR THE ENVIRONMENT PROGRAM

Industrial and Institutional Laundry (*web-only publications)

EPA-744-F-98-008 Industrial and Institutional Laundry Partnership - EPA and Industry Working Together

(3 pp) * November 1999

This brochure highlights the benefits of partnership and some key points EPA considers when deciding whether to partner.

Available online only at:

<http://www.epa.gov/dfe/pubs/laundry/brochure/index.html>

EPA-744-F-98-009 Considerations for Partnership

(10 pp) * January 1999

DfE's Considerations paper discusses the program's approach to forming partnerships and ways to improve the environmental profile of laundry products and processes.

Available online only at:

<http://www.epa.gov/dfe/pubs/laundry/consider/index.htm>

(No publication #) Invitation to Partner and Worksheet to Evaluate Alternative Ingredients: A Note to Industrial and Institutional Laundries

(2 pp) * 1999

To obtain an initial environmental profile of a detergent's ingredients, DfE encourages potential formulator partners to fill out the Ingredient Worksheet. DfE will use a completed worksheet—handled strictly as proprietary business information—to prepare a preliminary health and environmental assessment of a formulation's ingredients. This initial profile can serve as a baseline for considering safer alternatives and as a discussion piece for developing a partnership agreement.

Available online only at:

<http://www.epa.gov/dfe/pubs/laundry/ingrwork/index.htm>

(No publication #) Boilerplate Memorandum of Understanding (Draft): Formulators for Institutional Laundries

(9 pp) * October 1999

This sample memorandum of understanding (MOU) offers potential partners an understanding of the elements in a typical partnership and may be used as a model in drafting a new MOU. The circumstances and needs of an individual partnership will shape an MOU's specific content and wording.

Available online only at:

(No publication #) Technical Fact Sheet on Key Characteristics of Laundry Detergent Ingredients

(5 pp) * May 1999

The Ingredient Fact Sheet summarizes some of the key environmental and human health characteristics—positive and negative—that DfE has identified in laundry detergent ingredients and systems.
