1. INTRODUCTION

In February 1986, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) established the Radon Measurement Proficiency (RMP) Program to assist the public in identifying organizations capable of providing reliable radon measurement services. Until recently, the RMP Program measured the proficiency of organizations only and listed them according to their measurement service capabilities. Organizations listed in this report are called Listed RMP Program Participants. In December 1991, EPA announced the new individual proficiency listing category in the RMP Program. Individuals applying for this new listing status must demonstrate knowledge of radon measurement fundamentals by passing a written proficiency examination, maintain affiliation with an RMP listed organization, and meet other program requirements.

The Measurement Exam adds to the RMP Program by evaluating the knowledge of individual radon measurement service providers. The addition of this component is appropriate since the quality and reliability of radon measurement services depend on the ability of individual measurement contractors. The exam also evaluates the ability of measurement contractors to provide informed answers to radon questions the public may ask.

The RMP Program is managed by the EPA Office of Radiation and Indoor Air Programs' Radon Division. Under this voluntary program, radon measurement contractors demonstrate their proficiency by meeting specific Program requirements. Individual contractors who meet these requirements are then listed in the Report.

2. LISTING IN THE PROFICIENCY REPORT - WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

This report lists those individuals who have met the requirements of the RMP Program as of July 15, 1993. These requirements are designed to provide minimum proficiency criteria for individuals who provide radon measurement services on-site in a residential environment. (Some States have more stringent requirements as part of their radon certification programs. States should be consulted directly for details on their programs; see Section 5 for a list of State radon contacts.)

The RMP Program measures the proficiency of an organization and individual contractors within that organization. Users of this report who select a measurement firm should ensure that the services are provided by a listed individual contractor.

The National RMP Program does not accredit individual measurement contractors, nor does it certify, recommend, or endorse participating organizations.

States and the public are advised to use only those individual contractors who are currently listed and continue to meet all of the program's requirements as outlined in Section 3. A proficient contractor can be identified by their RMP photo identification card. A sample of this card is shown in Exhibit 1. The RMP identification number can be used to verify a contractor's current status in the program, or to report any problems or deficiencies to the State contacts listed in Section 5. When using listed individual measurement contractors, consumers should verify that the contractor has kept his/her proficiency status current by checking the expiration date on the contractor's identification card and contacting the State radon office. The Individual Proficiency Report will be updated periodically.

The identified individual has completed the requirements for listing under the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Radon Measurement Proficiency (RMP) Program. This person is not an employee of, nor do they represent, the Federal Government.

The EPA Radon Measurement Proficiency (RMP) Program is voluntary and it evaluates the proficiency of individuals that provide radon measurement services. EPA does not accredit, certify, recommend, or endorse listed individuals, nor is it responsible for work done, or liability incurred by the individual. Listed individuals must pass an initial written examination, and a re-examination every two years, be affiliated with an RMP Listed Organization, and meet the existing organization level requirements for measurement services. To verify current listing status or to report problems, please call your State Department of Health or Environmental Protection.

3. PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

The RMP Program is voluntary, consisting of several elements which collectively help to ensure the proficiency of individual radon measurement contractors. In order to demonstrate proficiency and be listed in the Report, contractors must fulfill certain requirements:

- National Exam - a contractor's knowledge of the major areas (domains) of measurement practice is evaluated through a comprehensive written national exam. There are six exam domains:
  - Problem Evaluation;
  - Performance of Tests;
  - Analysis of Measurements;
  - Interpretation of Results;
  - Report of Findings; and
  - Professional Standards of Conduct and Ethics.

These domains are described in Exhibit 2.

- RMP Organization Level Requirement - an individual contractor must meet existing RMP Organizational Level requirements and be affiliated with an organization that has current listed status. These requirements include, but are not limited to the following:
  - Adherence to EPA Measurement Protocols.
  - Providing services according to Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) and Quality Assurance Plans (QAPs) of the applicant's listed organization.
  - If offering secondary services, using analytical services from a listed primary organization.
  - Following RMP Guidelines for reporting measurement results as described in section 2.8 of the RMP Handbook.
- Maintain Affiliation with an RMP Listed Organization - Individuals must maintain their affiliation with an RMP listed organization to retain their proficiency status. They must notify EPA's contractor (ICF Incorporated) in writing within 30 days of any change in such affiliation. If the RMP listed organization with which individuals are affiliated loses its proficiency status, individuals may not use their ID cards, or represent themselves as having listed status in the RMP Program, until such time as they become affiliated with another RMP listed organization, or their current affiliated organization regains its listed status.
- Biennial Re-exam - the contractor will be evaluated by written examination every two years on their knowledge of changes in technology, regulations, protocols, and other radon subjects.

EXHIBIT 2

DESCRIPTION OF EXAM DOMAINS

1. Problem Evaluation

Establish the purpose of the tests by interviewing the occupant or contact person in order to select tests, methods, and conditions. Interview the occupants to establish pretest conditions, to inform them of possible test requirements, and to obtain information about the house. Inspect the house in order to determine if test requirements have been met and to confirm the initial selection of tests, methods, and strategies.

2. Performance of Tests

Determine and note pretest and post test conditions. Place, expose, and retrieve devices in accordance with measurement protocols in order to determine the concentration of radon and/or radon decay products during the exposure period. Verify test conditions and requirements (determine if tampering has occurred).

3. Analysis of Measurements

Process devices, analyze and validate measurement data as required in order to obtain concentrations of radon and/or radon decay products during the measurement period. (Provide quality assurance through frequent calibrations and use of duplicate and replicate tests.)

4. Interpretation of Results

Determine the significance of the test results by reviewing the conditions under which they were obtained and by comparing them with published guidelines in order to formulate recommendations.

5. Report of Findings

Convey survey results, recommendations, and published information on radon and radon health effects to clients in order to permit them to make informed decisions. Provide advice on possible mitigation strategies, if requested by client, and refer them to RCP listed or State certified contractors.

6. Professional Standards of Conduct and Ethics

The radon measurement professional adheres to the highest standards of business and ethical practice and respects the privacy rights of clients.

5. How To Use The RMP Tables

This report consists of two tables, each of which provides the contractors name, individual and organization identification numbers, company name, address, telephone number, and geographic service area of the 1000 individual proficient contractors in the Report. Also, attached is a list of delisted contractors. This list is any contractor who has not met the renewal requirement.

Table 1 is an alphabetical list of all proficient contractors, indexed by last name. Table 2 is an alphabetical list of all contractors, indexed by last name and by the State(s) in which they provide services; contractors who stated in their RMP application that they provide services nationwide are listed at the end of the table. Consumers who want a complete list of all contractors providing services in their State should consult both the State listing and the nationwide listing in Table 2. State radon contacts (see Section 5) can be consulted directly for periodic updates to the listings in these tables.

Note: If a State is not listed in Table 2, then there are no proficient contractors living in that State and no contractors explicitly listing the State as within their service area. Persons in these States who are seeking a proficient contractor should consult a contractor who provides services nationwide.

The abbreviations used in the tables for States, U.S. Territories, and Canada follow the standard two-letter postal format:
